HOMES DAMAGED BY FLASH FLOOD—Aerial view shows houses in Charleston, W. Va., twisted off their foundations by flash flood waters following a violent rainstorm. Eleven persons, six of them children, were confirmed dead in the storm which in less than four hours dumped more than five inches of rain on the area, a record for the city. (AP Wirephoto)

17 Lives Lost In Flash Flood

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Sudden, mud-smeared Charleston struggled to get off its knees Thursday from a torrential downpour that washed parts of the town away.

The flash flood took at least 17 lives. The flood victims were children.

It probably will be days before all the small, narrow valleys in the area are searched and the wrecked houses checked for more injured or dead.

After a trip through the stricken areas, Director Hulett C. Smith of the State Department of Commerce estimated the property loss would exceed $5 million.

Gas, electric and telephone companies called in scores of extra workers from other southern West Virginia cities to help restore service to the thousands who were cut off in the Charleston area.

5 Inches Plus Of Rain
Civil Defense personnel from Washington were on hand surveying the heavy damage from last night's soaking. More than five inches of rain fell in less than four hours.

Entire sections of outlying districts were in turmoil. Houses were chewed into kindling wood. Others were lifted off foundations and shoved 50 feet away. Some landed on the tops of neighbors' houses. Cars bounced along like tumbleweeds.

A small boy, crippled by polio, was left an orphan.

David Byers, 10, lived with his widowed mother, Priscilla Byers, 48, and his brother Richard, 9, on Garrison Avenue.

When the mass of water rushed down Garrison, a neighbor rushed into the Byers home, grabbed David, told Mrs. Byers to bring Richard and carried David to safety.

The bodies of Mrs. Byers and Ricky were recovered.

The terrain of the Charleston area lends itself to this swift, brutal treatment.

The city, about 85,000 population, lies in a narrow valley where the Elk River meets the Kanawha. On all sides are sharp, sloping hills that form troughs.

It was down these troughs that the water came. It came with such suddenness the small streams were unable to carry off the accumulation. The water, swirling feet high, plunged down sweeping everything—trees, houses, trucks, trailers—in its path.

Cut $200 Million

It cut $200 million from Kennedy's request for $500 million as a contingency fund for use at his discretion to meet unforeseen crises which may threaten to erupt in brush fires.

Voting amid mounting East-West tension over Berlin, the committee approved the five-year economic development loan fund plan by a vote of 10-7.

A rough fight still lies ahead on the Senate floor and in the House. The House Foreign Affairs Committee is now considering the legislation.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress Thursday authorized every cent President Kennedy asked for America's space programs. The total includes money for a start on the man-to-moon project.

By a 354-59 vote, the House passed the bill authorizing $1,784,300,000 for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration this year. The Senate then passed the bill by voice vote.

President Moves Ahead On Two Fronts To Meet Soviet Threat

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy Thursday moved ahead on two fronts with his plan to step up defenses against the Soviet threat hanging over Berlin.

Kennedy had aides shaping up a detailed program which the President will present to the American people in a nationwide radio-television speech Tuesday night and to Congress the following day.

In a related action—related because he regards civil defense as part of the nation's preparedness—Kennedy transferred major civil defense undertakings from the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization to the Pentagon with a view to increasing the U.S. ability to withstand attack. He called for a stepped-up program for building bomb and fallout shelters.

Prompt Relay
On the diplomatic front, Kennedy arranged for prompt relay to major Western allies of the details on what he termed his "final judgment" reached at a National Security Council meeting Wednesday on combating the Berlin threat.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk asked the British, French and West German ambassadors to a briefing Friday afternoon.

Top Pentagon officials, headed by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, arranged to leave for Paris and London Saturday to confer with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization commander, Gen. Lauris Norstad, and British defense officials.

The U.S. ambassador to NATO, Thomas K. Finletter, who attended the NSC session, plans to return to Paris Saturday to report to the 14 NATO allies.

Foy D. Kohler, assistant secretary of state for European affairs, prepared to leave for Paris next week with a small group of U.S. diplomatic experts. Kohler's group and similar units from other major Western allies are to lay the groundwork for a foreign ministers meeting among the Western Big Four in the French capital Aug. 57.

Informants said the United States intends not only to acquaint the allies with Kennedy's plans, but also to solicit added efforts by the allies, obtain closer coordination and consider political and economic as well as military steps to counter Communist pressures.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev has said he will sign a peace treaty with Communist East Germany at the end of this year—a move which he says will wipe out Western rights to West Berlin.

The White House press secretary, Pierre Salinger, declined comment on reports that Kennedy will declare a partial national emergency and call up National Guard units and reservists. The press secretary is keeping a secrecy wrap on the proposals pending presidential presentation next week.

Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., acting chairman of a Senate Appropriations subcommittee on defense, reported he is postponing until next Wednesday — at Kennedy's request — a meeting which had been scheduled for Friday to receive the administration's additional defense request.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said after another secret briefing on missile strength that he expects Kennedy to ask "for a big chunk" of additional defense funds next week to augment the $43-billion defense budget.

French Rip Into Blockade

TUNIS (AP)—Unleashing land, air and sea blows, the French smashed holes in the Tunisian blockade of Bizerte Naval Base Thursday in bloody fighting that raged on into the night.

Tunisian sources said their dead had mounted to 150 in two days of fighting, and makeshift hospitals set out under the open sky were overflowing with wounded. The French have mentioned only one dead so far but the toll is believed far higher.

The conflict over Tunisia claims to the base the French retained after granting Tunisia independence moved into the international arena. The U.N. Security Council was called into emergency session Thursday to hear Tunisia's complaint charging France with premeditated aggression.

Set To Talk

In Paris, Premier Michel Debre announced readiness to negotiate for a cease-fire, then went into conference with President Charles de Gaulle. France has refused to negotiate on withdrawal from Bizerte under Tunisia's threats of force.

In the red glare of artillery fire, France sent in more paratroopers. This was warning that France intended to stand firm against Tunisia's attempt to drive the French from the base.

Rocket-firing French planes attacked Tunisian barricades around the naval base.

The Tunisian government charged the French were airlifting Foreign Legionnaires as well as paratroopers from Algeria to Bizerte.

Travelers from Bizerte spoke in terror of French planes firing rockets into Tunisian mud huts. Some said French military dependents living off the base fired at Tunisian soldiers and civilians.

Bloody Fighting

The Tunisian radio said the Bizerte battle had turned into bloody street fighting and "the victims are countless."

Alarming messages flashed from all embassies in the sweltering Tunisian capital 40 miles southeast of the Bizerte battle scene.

Rep. Walter Firm On Retirement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Francis E. Walter, D-Pa., apparently is standing firm on his decision to retire from Congress.

Walter said last winter that the 87th Congress, the 15th in which he has served, would be his last. Aides say he has not discussed the matter recently but they assume he still is holding to his decision.

Meanwhile, hundreds of letters from all over the country have come rolling in asking Walter, chairman of the controversial House Committee on Un-American Activities, to reconsider.

He also is ranking Democrat on the House Judiciary Committee, co-author of the McCarran-Walter Immigration Act, dean of Pennsylvania's 30-member House delegation and frequently a p.e.s.s. Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., as presiding officer during debates.

Walter will testify next week before a House Agriculture subcommittee in support of a proposed $1,500,000 watershed project for Broadhead Creek at Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg, Pa.

Weather Woes Hit Grissom

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Weather woes piled up Thursday for astronaut Virgil I. Grissom, casting serious doubt on whether he will be able to rocket into space Friday—or even next week.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration meteorologists predicted marginal weather for this area Friday, offering no better than even odds that the sky will be clear enough to permit the second man-in-space shot.

However, the Redstone crew went ahead with a preliminary countdown and reported all missile systems in "go" condition.

If a hope still remains late Thursday night, the count will be resumed at 10:30 p.m., with the aim of a 6 a.m. firing. A final decision on the launching attempt will be made at 2 a.m.

Loading of liquid oxygen into the fuel tanks, which normally starts near the beginning of the final 6½-hour countdown, will be delayed until three hours before scheduled launch time.

Allow For "Scrub"

This would allow for a "scrub" as late as 3 a.m. without the necessity of another two-or three-day postponement. Once the "loose" flow into the tanks, it takes about 48 hours to empty, dry and clean them before the rocket is again ready to go.

If the shot is washed out before fueling, it could be attempted again on Saturday.

Meanwhile, the first tropical storm of the season, packing winds up to 65 miles an hour, was churning up in the Caribbean about 1,500 miles southeast of this missile test center.

While no immediate effect was foreseen in the launch or landing areas, the space agency said, the storm—called Anna—may snarl things by early next week if Grissom is not sent off on his flight by then.

Grissom was little more than 10 minutes from blastoff Wednesday morning when Project Mercury officials decided to "scrub" the mission because of persistent clouds. This was the second delay because of cantankerous weather.

Grissom planned to take it easy Thursday, except for consultations on the all-important weather.

Governor Criticizes Demos For Reapportionment Delay

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Lawrence criticized Thursday fellow Democrats, particularly those in Washington, for the delay on a congressional reapportionment plan.

Reporters reminded the governor at his weekly news conference that Democratic leaders have been making almost weekly promises to come up with a plan soon. "I agree with you thoroughly ... and it's wrong," said the governor.

He noted that a committee of Democratic congressmen was appointed months ago to draft a bill for realizing the present 30 congressional districts into 27. Pennsylvania loses the three seats because it failed to keep pace with the population growth of the balance of the nation.

They certainly should have a bill by now, Lawrence said, adding: "But they've been haggling around with this supposed amendment in Washington, and hoping on that, and nothing happens."

"Of course, they've got until sometime next year to do it, so they can do it fairly well in January, however, it ought to be done now."

The governor was referring to a proposed amendment to increase the over-all membership of the U.S. House of Representatives. If approved, the amendment might cost Pennsylvania only two seats.

The state legislature must approve the reapportionment plan. The governor called "farical" a Republican proposal that the legislature recess to give legislators an opportunity to sound out public opinion on taxes for education.

Animals Grab News Play From Humans In Keystone

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Animals took away some of the news play from human beings in Pennsylvania Thursday.

In Delaware County, for example, one of the busiest roads—the Media by-pass of U.S. 1—was tied up for about an hour during the morning rush period by nine horses.

They had strayed from a riding club onto the four-lane highway where drivers got a clip of up to 50 miles. A 16-year-old girl from the riding academy proved indispensable to the police who were trying to cope with the crisis. She snared the leader of the pack by the halter, and the other horses trailed docilely after her.

Business-Like Deer

A full-grown deer drifted into the business section of Oxford, Chester County. Frightened by the racket of traffic, it leaped through the glass door of a drug store and headed pell mell for the basement. The deer, an 115-pound doe, was so badly hurt from the glass that it had to be destroyed.

Louis Rosati, 33, a contractor living about five miles north of Lansdale, was alone at home Wednesday night. He fell asleep in front of his television set. Next thing he knew his cocker spaniel, Cindy, was barking furiously. As he groped back to wakefulness, Rosati also heard a thumping on the door. It was a passerby trying to rouse someone. For the house was on fire. Three fire companies put in an hour putting out the flames.

Vote Today Foreign Aid Bill Passes Hurdle

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee late Thursday approved a $4,326,500,000 foreign aid program, along with the full authority President Kennedy asked for, a five-year long-term economic development loan program.

The committee put off a final vote on the measure until Friday after trimming only $436 million from Kennedy's total requests for $4,762,500,000 in spending and lending authority for this fiscal year, which started July 1.

The Senate group accepted the chief feature of the program virtually without change. This was his request for authority to borrow $8.8 billion from the Treasury over the next five years for easy-term economic development loans abroad.

Then, in a long afternoon session, the committee voted Kennedy authority for $1.8 billion in funds for military arms aid for the defense pact allies, only $85 million less than he asked for that purpose.

2 Statements Sum Up Control, Development Of DR Basin

(The following is the third in a series of interpretive articles on the 11-volume Delaware River Basin Report. The condensation was prepared by the Waters Resources Assn. of the Delaware River Basin, of which The Daily Record is a member.)

THE Delaware River Basin Report contains two short statements that fairly well summarize what the Army Engineers suggest be done to control and develop the water resources of the Delaware River Basin over the next several decades.

First, according to the DRB Report, "continuous and vigorous action by federal and non-federal agencies, separately and cooperatively under authorities that exist or may be provided, in prosecution of programs for land management, controlling and regulating the use and development of flood plains, preservation and development of recreation and fish and wildlife resources, abatement of stream pollution and improvement of water quality, conservation of ground and surface waters, and preservation of sites for the projects that comprise the Comprehensive Plan."

Second, "the district engineer recommends that a plan consisting of 19 major control projects and 30 small projects, at an estimated total construction cost of $91 million dollars, be adopted as a guide to the timid and balanced development of the water resources of the basin . . ."

Related Programs

In the first statement, the engineers recognize the very obvious importance of what they usually call "water related programs."

Since these programs do not come directly under the jurisdiction of the corps, and since they require decisions on other than the federal level, they strongly urge that these programs be vigorously pursued by existing agencies.

The "water-related programs" are an important feature of the comprehensive plan and shouldn't be overlooked. Certainly the engineers didn't as just these few items show.

"The land management programs of the Department of Agriculture are generally the most effective means of alleviating damages from overland flows in the uppermost headwaters of the basin.

Although land management programs are active in the basin, much remains to be done to assess the effectiveness of indicated measures, to establish an integrated basinwide program and to implement such a program to accomplish optimum control of the overland flows in the basin."

"Controlled use of the flood plains of the basin provides excellent potentials for the alleviation of flood damages."

"Included in programs of this type are such measures as prevention of channel encroachment, zoning to regulate development and reconstruction in the flood plains, adjustments in the occupation of lands and structures subject to flooding, and evacuation of the flood plain either on a permanent basis to provide for parks and other developments not susceptible to serious damage by flooding, or on a temporary basis by flood warning arrangements."

The effective application of any or all of the possible measures to control the use of the flood plains will require that local interests initiate and administer such programs . . ."

Depends On Program

"It is apparent that acceptable water qualities in the basin will depend on a continued and vigorous program to increase waste removal efficiencies to assure a 70 per cent removal of future raw pollution loads."

"Many water conservation practices have been proven feasible in water deficient areas. Probably the most effective for use in this area would be internal recycling of water used by industry and increased receptivity of water as it flows from the headwater levels of the basin to the sea."

"In both of these possibilities the problems of water pollution may act to set constraints on the practical limits of their application."

"However, it is apparent that the practice of conservation measures in the use of water has much to offer in an area such as the Delaware River Basin where projected population and industrial activity foretell dwindling supplies of raw water . . ."

The heart of the Engineers' plan is contained in the second statement.

For explanatory purposes, the 58 dams that the Engineers recommend be built in the basin over the next fifty years or more will be analyzed in three separate categories. The first category will consist of the eleven multiple-purpose dams; the second category of the eight projects proposed for two-stage development; and the third of the thirty-nine small, upstream dams.

In this special bulletin no attempt will be made to examine in detail any of the 58 projects. However, the accompanying map and data sheet show the reader at a glance the general location, purposes, overall cost and general allocation of costs of most of the plan.

Readers interested in knowing such things as the allocation of costs among functions are advised to refer to Volume I, Main Report, of the DRB Report.

In glancing over the eleven multiple-purpose projects listed in the data sheet, the reader will note that all are designed to serve two or more of the following four purposes: water supply, flood damage reduction, recreation and the generation of hydroelectric power.

The reader should also note that three of the processed projects . . . the Newark, Christiana, and Hawk Mountain Dams . . . call for no expenditures by the Federal Government.

As will be explained later, this is so largely because the Federal Government, under existing statutes, pays only for the costs of flood control aspects of such projects, and for minimum facilities at such projects. None of the three above-mentioned dams will provide flood damage reduction.

Interesting Feature

An interesting feature of the proposed Tocks Island project, and one that the Water Resources Association explored in its news-letter of September, 1960, is the Engineers' recommendation that the Federal Government develop the recreation potential of this project.

This will require the acquisition of some 47,000 acres of land around the reservoir and will, in effect, create the first National Recreation Area in the eastern United States.

The reader should also note that the Engineers say it is economically feasible to generate hydroelectric power at only two of the proposed dams (Tocks Island and Hawk Mountain). This is indicative of the relatively small power potential of the small, gently flowing Delaware, at least in relation to the magnitude of demand in the area. It appears that the most productive method of using water to develop power in the Delaware Basin will be through pumped-storage rather than conventional methods.

In recommending the development of eight single-purpose (recreation) projects by the State of New Jersey and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the Engineers emphasized the importance of preserving reservoir sites.

The DRB Report notes that the areas served by these eight reservoirs don't have water supply problems now, but may, given present trends, in four or five decades. Thus, the Engineers say, since these are the best reservoir sites in the area, they should be acquired very soon and developed for recreation purposes since such outdoor recreation resources are badly needed.

Later, when these reservoirs are needed for water supply, they can be used for this purpose provided proper provisions for such use have been made ahead of time.

The Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters, under Dr. Maurice K. Goddard, has already acted to reserve one of five years, the Tockton Creek site will be developed into a State Park featuring water related activities of all types.

Poconos' Streams

The reader will rather quickly note from the map that most of the proposed thirty-nine small upstream dams are to be located on these streams in the Poconos that claimed most of the lives lost during the August, 1955 floods.

However, others are proposed for scattered streams that have equally serious flooding problems. In one case, that of the Wissahickon Creek, the very ably led citizens' group has used the small dams proposed by the Army Engineers as the nucleus of a comprehensive plan of flood damage reduction for their valley. Other groups will probably also do this.

Thirty-six of the proposed 39 small dams can be built under existing programs and continuing authorizations contained in Public Laws 566 and 685.

Three of the small control projects, namely, the Parkside, Swiftwater and Jim Thorpe projects, exceed cost limitations imposed by Public Law 685, but they are eligible for accomplishment under Public Law 566 subject to approval by the Senate Agriculture and Forestry Committee and the House Agriculture Committee.

In the DRB Report, the District Engineer recommends that the Congress immediately authorize the construction of eight major control projects that he believes will be needed in the next thirty years.

These projects are the proposed Beltsville, Blue Marsh, Trexler, Tocks Island, Aquashicola and Maiden Creek Dams and the modification of the existing Bear Creek and Prompton Dams.

District Engineer's Recommendations.

Interchangeability
An interesting feature of the large, multiple-purpose dams is their interchangeability in the schedule for development. For example, because of the urgent water supply problem in the Lehigh Valley, the Engineers recommend that four dams be built in the Valley at timely intervals starting almost immediately with the Beltsville Dam.

However, if circumstances warrant, the same needs can be met to a greater or lesser extent by building one of the other Lehigh projects before the Beltsville project. The same is true on the Schuylkill with respect to the proposed Maiden Creek and Blue Marsh projects.

One final and negative note as far as the major recommendations are concerned.

The Engineers, after studying the feasibility of constructing a salt water barrier across the Delaware estuary, concluded that such a dam is feasible from an engineering standpoint but because of its high cost and its impact on navigation, pollution control, fish and wildlife and other activities was not "economically attractive" at the present time.

Such a dam, therefore, is not a part of the comprehensive plan.

McNamara Forestry Unit Head

E. F. McNAMARA, district forester of the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters in Stroudsburg, was elected president of the Pennsylvania Forestry Association at the 75th Anniversary Meeting held recently at State College, Pa.

The Pennsylvania Forestry Association established in 1886, is the oldest statewide organization in the United States.

Over the years, the association progressive conservation program has:

(1) Instigated the creation of a responsible agency in state government to administer and protect the forests of Pennsylvania (present Department of Forests and Waters);

(2) Has through educational and legislative efforts achieved a successful forest fire prevention program in the commonwealth;

(3) More recently has developed the program using the symbol "Howdy" and the theme "Have Good Outdoor Manners" to combat the increase in littering and abuse of our outdoor resource.

Elected to serve with McNamara were Dr. Peter Fletcher, dean of the Penn State Forestry School executive vice president; Ralph White, state forester, secretary; and V. C. Miles, woodland specialist, Soil Conservation Service, treasurer.

Reports on the Bedford Springs convention of the Pennsylvania State Exchange Club will be presented by the two local delegates, Carl F. Nauman and Herman Smeltz.

Jews Will Commemorate 'Tisha B'av' Fast Day

TODAY is a major fast day in Jewish tradition known in Hebrew as "Tisha B'av." It commemorates the day in the year 586 B.C.E. when the walls of Jerusalem crumbled before the onslaught of its mighty conquerors and the temple was destroyed—a tragic event immortalized in the Book of Lamentations.

It also marks the day that the second temple in Jerusalem was burned to ashes by the Roman conquerors in the year 70 C. E. It is thus a day of historic mourning in Jewish life.

Special Services

Special services will be held to commemorate the day with the Book of Lamentations being read and explained by Rabbi Bernhard Presler at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow. Services will also be held on Sunday at 9:30 a.m.

Sabbath services will be held at Temple Israel at 8 p.m. today and at 7:30 a.m. tomorrow. Rabbi Presler's sermon will be on the subject, "Symphony of Life."

Richardson and Arthur Troger spoke on hospital patient costs. Claude Schier, former local businessman, was introduced by Treasurer Oscar Zimmerman.

Secretary William H. Metzgar read a letter from Ernest H. Wyckoff, thanking the club for the birthday observance it held for him.

Charles Bruch, 16, of 2716 Liberty St., Palmer Township, also an occupant of the car, was not hospitalized.

Accident Victim Improves

THE condition of Claude Dixon, 10 Rock Hill, S. C., RD 3, was reported slightly improved yesterday at Monroe County General Hospital.

Miss Yeager was admitted to the hospital in critical condition after a one-car accident at Point of Gap Monday. She suffered a brain laceration and other cuts and bruises.

Still in guarded condition yesterday were Wayne Unger, 17, of 2801 Northampton St., Palmer Township, the driver, and Lucinda Uhler, 14, of 1910 Ferry St., Wilton.

Soviet Edict: Kill Holligans

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union's chief prosecutor, R. A. Rudenko, assured Soviet citizens Thursday they will escape prosecution if they injure or kill a hooligan in self defense.

"Soviet law, as well as the laws of many other countries, permit a person to defend himself against attack from a hooligan," Rudenko. His comment was published in the official youth newspaper, Komsomolskaya Pravda, which said it had asked him about the problem. In the Soviet Union, the word hooligan covers everything from a purse snatcher to a rapist.

Rudenko said self-defense must be encouraged in the Soviet Union because "it is impossible to have a policeman standing on every corner."

Payments For Wool In Monroe

Payments under the 1960 national wool program now are being made in Monroe County.

Donald Reish, chairman, County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, has announced. The payments are in connection with marketings of wool and unshorn lambs during the year from April 1, 1960 through March 31, 1961.

Thus far, 1960 program payments in the county have amounted to $997.74. Applications for the payments had to be filed by May 1.

On shorn wool, the rate of payment is 47.6 percent of the dollar returns the producer received from the sale of shorn wool during the year, or $47.60 for every $100 received.

This is the amount necessary to bring average wool prices up to the announced incentive level of 62 cents per pound under the National Wool Act.

On unshorn lambs, the rate is 80 cents per hundredweight of live animals sold.

Deductions of 1 cent per pound from shorn wool payments and 5 cents per 100 pounds of liveweight from lamb payments will be made for advertising, promotion, and related market development activities on wool and lamb.

The incentive level for shorn wool for the current 1961 marketing year—covering marketings from April 1, 1961 through March 31, 1962, is 62 cents per pound, the same as for previous years.

New Jobs

There's an old saying to the effect that everyone talks about the weather, but nobody does anything about it. Likewise, everybody talks about full employment. But here the simile ends — the people of Monroe County are doing something about it.

A move has been launched to form an industrial development council to raise a minimum of $150,000 to strengthen the community's job structure. The money is to be used to attract new industries and to expand existing facilities.

An intensive campaign now being mapped will be built around the theme, "New Jobs," and universal participation in these efforts is being sought to assure speedy achievement of the goal.

Since all segments of the local economy stand to benefit from the council's long-range program for industrial development, the outlook should be for a hard-hitting team effort with widest possible sharing of the campaign burden.

With this thought in mind, the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce has undertaken the task of spearheading the drive and has invited other groups in the community to join in forming the council.

Active representation is sought from commercial, industrial and labor organizations, with each scheduled to play a vital role in bringing about the desired results. No one group can fall down on the job and expect the others to make up the deficiency. It must be a cooperative venture with each trying to outdo the other.

In this connection, we are happy to note that the Pocono Mountains Real Estate Board has endorsed the fund-raising proposal and voted to contribute both as an organization and as individual realtors. The example they set should be followed quickly by other groups in the community.

Bad Timing Of Holidays

The Fourth of July, falling as it does this year on Tuesday, is a sharp reminder of the way we cheat ourselves of real, long holidays by our refusal to adapt the calendar to our best uses.

There is nothing sacred about the calendar. It is man-made, and should be flexible enough to suit our needs. The same can be said of most of the holidays that are observed on certain dates. These dates are, for the most part, approximations.

There is as much good reason to observe the Fourth on the second or the third. And there is no reason why other holidays, sacred or profane, cannot be on a floating basis, as Easter and Labor Day and others are.

This year many employees, away for the weekend, will have to come back to work on Monday and will then take off again for the Tuesday respite. Some employers will give their employees

Monday off, but not all are able to afford to.

The result of the slipshod condition will mean a disruption of many businesses through absenteeism. Even worse, in terms of numbers, is the deprivation of many people of a nice long weekend holiday.

In Britain production and clerical employees get four bank and general holidays a year: Easter Monday, Whitmonday, the first Monday in August, and Boxing Day, the first weekday after Christmas.

Congress in 1959 granted an extra holiday to government workers whenever a legal holiday falls on a Saturday. The law already provided for a free Monday for them when a holiday falls on Sunday.

It is sheer human inertia that robs us so often of three-day-week-end holidays. This Fourth is a prime example. —Hartford Courant

George Sokolsky Says . . .

The Drug Industry

It is difficult quite to understand what Senator Kefauver is getting at in his investigation of the drug industry. If it is prices that he seeks to regulate, then why not regulate all prices of all goods.

If he objects to labels and trade names, he makes a mistake because sensible folks not only demand original labels when they buy a medicine but get to know it by name of the bottle. The day when the doctor scrawls in Latin so that no one can read what he says, not even the pharmacist, is over.

We want to know what it is that goes into us. Also there is the advantage of not taking the wrong medicine, the killer instead of the healer.

Senator Kefauver, in a previous investigation, gave the impression that he was bringing the underworld to the surface. It was exciting to watch Frank Costello testify before a television camera.

When that investigation was all over, the underworld was still in business, as potent as ever, pushing heroin as actively as possible; organized vice continued to compete with private immoral persons; graft in public office became increasingly scientific.

Precisely what Senator Kefauver accomplished by his crime investigation is not clear. He dropped the whole business.

Now since December 1959, he has been going after the legitimate drug business. He does not claim that any of these companies are engaged in illegal practices. No one is sent to prison as a result of this investigation. Nothing is being done to stop manufacturers from spending millions of dollars for research. It is therefore difficult to discover precisely what the Senator seeks to accomplish.

I have gone through the material diligently, seeking to discover why I have to take expensive pills when I feel so good and can do twice as much work as I used to do.

The Senatorial committee's reports do not help me at all. In fact, I find much of their information to be baby-stuff, uninformative and not very helpful. Of course, drugs are expensive; so are tombstones.

Recently when my secretary was dying, all sorts of isotopes were used and I presumed that they cost a lot of money. The total bill was enormous. But if one of the isotopes could have saved her life, it would have been cheap at any price.

Nowhere is so much done for the sick as in this country and it is done mostly by private pharmaceutical companies that spend their money on research and then on promoting the drug.

Much of this expenditure may be wasted because the research does not prove out. However, one success may save thousands of human lives and how much is a life worth?

Furthermore there is danger in what Senator Kefauver is doing. Patients and their families lose confidence in particular drugs that get front page attention because they are played up at a committee hearing.

I know that nobody several years ago survived the series of illnesses that I had, but I have survived and am more active than ever. I am amused by friends who come up to me to say: "How wonderful you look, but do you feel as well as you look?" Sure, and I am doing more work.

And if someone tells me that the bag of medicines I carry about with me are expensive, I must laugh, particularly when I read circulars advertising graves. I would rather pay for a medicine than a grave any day. So what is the complaint?

Apparently Senator Kefauver says that the manufacturers charge too much. Much of the testimony that I have read has to do with faulty arithmetic. This is quite natural and reminds me when I was young in Shanghai.

Some of us were interested in making an extra dollar out of China's share of what was known as reparation dyes; that is, the dyes seized from the Germans after World War I. We were very enthusiastic but not sound businessmen. We added a 10 per cent profit to the cost and lost lots of money.

We had, of course, failed to include interest on the money, exchange from one currency to another, shipping, insurance and all sorts of other charges. We subsequently calculated that a 200 per cent mark-up would have brought us a slight profit. It is just simple arithmetic.

The Pennsylvania Story

In Absentia

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg — Reporter's Notebook: Push-Button Lawmaking —

When the House of Representatives this year installed an electric roll call system for recording the vote by the chamber's 210 members, the move was made with a view toward speed — cutting down the laborious and oftentimes time-consuming (10 to 15 minutes) required in the old oral roll call system.

The speed phase was duly accomplished — it's now a matter of a few seconds for each member to press his own individual "yea" or "nay" button and the lights on the electronic scoreboard immediately show the total vote and how each individual member voted.

However — there is a drawback . . . Under the old vocal roll call system, the House was pretty strict on having each individual member answer in his own voice as the roll was called.

Under the electric roll call system now in effect there is no voice — and nothing to prevent a colleague from pressing a voting button for an "in absentia" fellow-member, who may not be on hand but yet wants to be recorded as voting.

After all, there is no "attendance" record as such taken in either the House or Senate — the roll calls themselves serving this purpose, the theory being if a member doesn't answer to a roll call, he just isn't there.

In the Senate the situation is just as sad . . . In the upper chamber, particularly when "consent" calendars are used by agreement of both sides, members may be absent for the entire day — but they are recorded as voting (and thus being present) anyway, the vote running along the pro or con theme of the party bloc for individual bills that day.

Austerity Bend Thy Head — When the Governor this week held a showdown for fellow members of the House and Senate, the affair was not one of those high-on-the-hog deals at all . . . In fact, it tied in very well with the great "austerity" program on Capitol Hill the Governor has been vigorously chattering about since he assumed office.

The menu for the Demo legislative shindig: cold cuts . . . Snapped one gubernatorial aide: "When we say austerity — we mean austerity!" . . . The tab was picked up — not by ye taxpayers as might have been the case in days of old — but by the Democratic State Committee.

Are Republican lawmakers destined to get invited to such a shindig as befell their counterparts on the opposite side of the aisle? . . . No — they are not . . . Actually, their affair at the hands of the Governor was held in February when the Governor served as host to "all" members of the Legislature, whether Republican or Democratic — and the menu then was: cold cuts!

The tab for that annual legislative dinner, however, was picked up from the Governor's Office budget — as a state function.

Hotbed of Coal — Old King Coal unquestionably flickered back into his once prominent domain this week as hearings continued (hotly) over strip mine regulations governing strip mine operations should be intensified.

Point worth noting: Coal operators say the intensified strip mine regulations will mean that some of the stripping operations will have to shut down — they can't afford the added expense.

Item: operators in routine reports to the Department of Mines and Mineral Industries report 10,213 Pennsylvanians employed in coal stripping operations last year . . . This does not include coal truckers, etc., who work in the industry but are not employed directly by the coal operators.

Economic impact? . . . For already hard-pressed Pennsylvania it is a factor perhaps well worth considering.

A big fire in a mid-western brewery caused a temporary beer shortage in those parts, and every bar and grill had to go on a quota. The proprietor of one roadside retreat called to plead for an additional shipment "Too Sweet." "It's an emergency," he declared. "But you have had your quota for the week," the brewery superintendent pointed out. "I know I have," answered the caller, "but what about my customers?"

He told the judge he didn't get too angry when he had to live in the barn with the cows for two weeks while his mother-in-law dropped in for a visit, but he did reach the limit of endurance when the birth of two calves crowded him out of the barn and compelled him to sleep with the chickens in the henhouse

The Allen-Scott Report

Private School Aid

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott
Washington — It's a baffling toss-up what Congress will do on the aid-to-education bill because of the intense controversy over the private school issue — yet the U.S. government is spending millions on such schools in Africa.

President Kennedy's pending $4.8 billion foreign aid bill contains an $18 million item for this purpose.

Remarkably, this sizable provision not only has attracted no public attention in the stormy educational aid battle, but it also hasn't caused a ripple of concern in Congress.

Neither side in the acrimonious private school fight has said a word about this $18 million proposal for private schools in Africa. No one has raised the question of constitutionality, or anything else. For some unexplained reason, the item has been completely ignored.

Yet there can be no doubt that this money is intended for the construction and maintenance of denominational schools — Catholic, Protestant and others in Africa.

Revealing Exchange — Following are highlights of this significant discussion:

"What is being done in Africa about using the educational facilities of religious missions and denominations?" asked Gallagher.

"We have made use of them and there is every intention to continue doing that," replied Williams. "If I recall correctly, in the Congo, for example, there is a program of more than one million dollars for what is called the Polytechnic Institute, which is the creation of a group of religious organizations."

"How is it subsidized?" continued Gallagher.

"By a bilateral Congo fund to which we contribute," explained Williams. "These mission schools, while they are religious oriented, are open to all students."

"In other words," said Gallagher, "as long as foreign aid funds aren't spent for religious purposes, but for the expansion and maintenance of educational facilities, that meets with your approval?"

"Yes, that is the way this program operates," said Williams.

"Do we hunt up these schools," asked Gallagher, "or do they submit aid programs to us?"

"In most instances," declared Williams, "the African governments, that have been helping these denominational schools as part of their educational systems, present aid programs. They do that as part of their overall plans."

"Then we actually subsidize directly through an agreement with the schools?" asked Gallagher.

"Yes, that is the way it works," replied Williams.

"And that was all. Representative Thomas Morgan, D-Pa., chairman, inquired if anyone else had anything to say, but no one did. So the committee turned to other aspects of the foreign aid measure."

In the past fiscal year, the U.S. contributed more than $16 million to public and private schools in Africa. The countries receiving this educational aid were the Congo, East Africa, Ethiopia, Kenya, Ghana, Liberia, Nigeria, Northern Rhodesia, Sierra Leone, Somali, Sudan and Tanganyika.

That was clearly spelled out by G. Mennen Williams, assistant secretary of state for African affairs, under questioning at a conference with the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

He made no bones to Rep. Cornelius Gallagher, D-N.J., that these funds are to be used for denominational schools.

Revealing Exchange — Following are highlights of this significant discussion:

Dear Abby

She Wanted Out--And Got It

Dear Abby: In a fit of temper I told my husband I wanted a divorce, and he took me up on it. I never dreamed he would go to a lawyer and get things started so fast because we have three children who are his whole life.

His lawyer told him to move out of the house. He is gone now, and I don't know what to do. I don't want a divorce, and am sorry I brought it up. How can I get my husband to come back and stop the divorce action, without sacrificing my pride?

TOO HASTY
Dear Hasty: Forget your pride. Run, don't walk, to the nearest phone. Ask him to forgive you, and please come home. If you are lucky enough to get him back, monitor your mouth, or you could find yourself living alone and not liking it.

Dear Abby: What is a girl supposed to do with a father who walks by her and makes kissing sounds when she is talking to a boy on the telephone? I am 13 and am disgusted with my father, who thinks he is funny.

EMBARRASSED
Dear Embarrassed: There's

no need to be embarrassed. Your Pop was a boy himself once, and loves to tease. Be a good sport and ignore it. He'll quit.

Dear Abby: My old lady is a real kook. She looks through the fashion magazines and thinks if she doesn't look like those scrawny, underfed beanpoles, she is too fat. She is 5 feet 7, and could carry a lot more meat on her bones than she does, but she counts calories like crazy. When I married her, ten years ago, she wasn't a nut on this weight business, and we enjoyed ice cream sodas and hot dogs like other people. Now it's a different story. Every time I reach for a pretzel she says, "More, you don't need that!" Please print in your column what you think a 32-year-old woman, who stands 5 ft. 7 in., should weigh in at.

HER HUSBAND
Dear Husband: She should weigh in at the weight her husband thinks is "way out."

Confidential To Annenette: Say something brilliant—like "good-bye!"

What's bothering you? For a personal reply, write to Abby, care of The Daily Record. Include a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Premier Saeb Salam has received a long-delayed gift from Premier Khrushchev and there will be another long delay before he can enjoy it.

The present is a box of fine Russian caviar, and the newspaper Orient reported Salam is allergic to caviar in hot weather.

The caviar is in exchange for a pot of carob syrup (a Mediterranean fruit) Salam sent to Khrushchev last December.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

For the second straight week the weather has interfered with the Thursday tournaments for the women of Glen Brook but many of the most intrepid golfers golfed anyway. Those who didn't miss the sight of Henri Stenger all decked out in a stovetop coconut hat and muumuu, fresh from Hawaii, all set to tee off.

And all buoyed up was Helen Haynes with a gift of appreciation from one of the York visitors: a Golf Log book with a page for every game and a place for comments on drives and iron shots and opponents play, and an envelope in back for saving score cards. Which should make some pleasant winter reading for Helen who has been going great guns.

Going great guns, too, is road construction work which leads to some mighty unexpected detours especially west of Stroudsburg for housewives getting the first sweet corn fresh from the farm, with the corn practically steamed in the husk before they could figure out how to get home.

The flood of new homes west of Stroudsburg — homes of young couples with lots of young and energetic children — is reflected in the pattern of community living. Used to be that the benefit circuses, carnivals and Wild West Shows used to originate in the South Side, which now seems to be reaching the quieter, grandparental status.

The same thing has happened in its turn to the hill section, and probably before that to the center of town. The sites change but children's ingenuity goes on forever.

Fancy Pie-Crust Edging Parties Up Flummery Pie

By Cecily Brownstone
Associated Press Food Editor
ANY cook who wants applause needs only to bake a pretty, fancy pie shell. Easy to do, if you have a bit of time, and such elegant show for company.

What will you choose for the pie shell's rim — crescents, coins or buttons? For any of these borders, fit the pastry into the pie plate and trim the overhang even with the plate's edge; now use the trimmings for the shapes.

Cut out crescents with a small crescent-cutter set, press the crescents into the slightly moistened pie-shell rim so they barely touch.

For coins, cut out ¼ inch rounds, using the center of a doughnut cutter or a thumb. Overlap the rounds on the slightly moistened pie-shell rim, pressing down lightly.

For buttons, make cutouts with a small metal bottle cap and place these, just touching, on the slightly moistened pie-shell rim. Now use a wooden skewer to simulate button holes by piercing the center of each round of dough in four places.

How to fill the decorated baked pie shell? Here's Fruit Flummery Pie!

Desserts named Flummeries were popular in the 1890's, and one of these was made with sweetened and flavored gelatin mixed with beaten egg whites and lots of cream. This 1961 recipe bears weight-watcher's in mind. so it calls for lots of fruit and a minimum of cream. Our family tasted it after a spicy main course and judged it "refreshing."

The snows of Killmanjaro, and the lions and other animals of Kenya, Africa, are a familiar sight to Miss Helen Devitts who shared her experiences with members of the Testament League Bible Class of the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church at their meeting this week.

Miss Devitts, whose parents are missionaries in Africa, is a student at Houghton College, New York, and is spending the summer with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Leo McNally, Scott St.

She is planning on entering the mission field. She told of the physical and cultural features of the land of her birth, and of her affection and appreciation for the people of Kenya.

Miss Devitts also showed slides of the work of the mission, the terrain and of Mount Killmanjaro whose 19,000 feet height she has climbed more than once, as well of pictures and other wild beasts she had taken.

A social hour followed the program.

The Wyckoff Shopper

"The friendly store"
A.E. Wyckoff
Stroudsburg, Pa.

It has been a busy, pleasant day at Wyckoff's. First to visit my office was my friend, Victor Joseph Gatto, the distinguished primitive artist, who tells me he's been back in the Stroudsburgs several weeks, and has a studio filled with interesting paintings of New York City. Joe spent the winter in Miami, as is his custom, then painted for a few weeks in New York, and is now hard at work again. Some of his new paintings are among the largest he has ever done, he tells me — and probably among the finest. He looks well — younger than we recall, and as happy to be back as his local friends are to see him.

While Joe and I were talking, Mary Krieg arrived, filled with enthusiasm for her new home — the first she and John have owned, since their lives take them continuously back and forth between Pennsylvania and Florida. Lunching in our Tea Room, Mary remarked that anyone can learn a lot from Wyckoff's. "This room is really quite small, for instance," she said, "but it gives such an air of spaciousness." This is due, I think, to the realistically tinted pictures in the Tea Room windows — scenes of Monroe County that give one the feeling of looking out upon unlimited vistas.

Mary was also interested in the "full circle" baskets Amy Eilenberger has used to decorate her notions department, filling them with a profusion of flowers and hanging them from the ceiling in front of a big mirror. "It gives me an idea how I can use a similar basket brought me from Mexico," Mary decided. And this, I think, is half of the joy of shopping — not actually buying everything one admires, but adapting what one already owns to the effect one admires.

As we left the Tea Room, Mary pointed to a few cowboy-type straw hats, edged in color, displayed on top of the basket case in our center aisle. "It doesn't take a great deal to please some people, does it?" she remarked. "Not long ago, I was in the store when a man and woman walked past this rack in front of me. They were dressed in the sort of thing one might wear to work around a farm — and suddenly the man spied these hats. He was an elderly fellow, but you should have seen how delighted he was with them. He put one on, and his whole face glowed with pleasure. You could tell he really enjoyed seeing them here, and trying them."

When it comes right down to it, it is the "little" pleasures that brighten a day. Mary and I decided... the unexpected kind word, the surprise gift or kindness, the chance discovery of something that carries us back to a happy moment from years ago, or speeds us forward (even a tiny inch) toward a long-treasured goal. This is a good thing. It may even be a necessary thing, for, when it comes right down to it, not too many big, wonderful things come the way of an average person. Or maybe, on the other hand, the little things that occur are far bigger and more important than we realize.

It seems to me that the many items jamming Wyckoff's are so varied they must certainly give pleasure to innumerable customers and sight-seers. I am amused and mystified, for instance, everytime I walk through our shoe department and see the shearing houseboots and slippers of lamb's wool displayed in a brilliant rainbow on our counter. Some are red, some are purple; all are as bulky and startling as any college or high school miss practicing the "kookie" look, would demand. But believe me, they aren't designed to make large feet look smaller. They're colossal! The high boot-type is 9.50; the slippers, 5.95, and they're just the thing for the girl who wants to be different. No wonder we've already sold quite a number... On the other hand, I am delighted with the new shipment of carved wooden stands and boxes in our gift department. I love wood — the grain of it, the rich colors, the sleek carvings, the pretty inlays... Yes, indeed, there are plenty of things to see... enjoy... puzzle over... and budget for... at WYCKOFF'S. Shop today 9 to 9.

Pocono-Bethlehem Tie In Ruth Playoff

Slate Belt Stars Eliminate E-Burg

IT was a pitchers duel most of the way but one bad inning was enough to give the Slate Belt All-Stars a 3-1 win over the East Stroudsburg All-Stars at East Stroudsburg.

This was the first round in the Little League playoffs for District 20.

Nick Parillo came back again this year to down East Stroudsburg. He did the same last year.

Parillo fanned 12 batters and allowed only one walk. At one point he had struck out eight in a row and struck out the side in two consecutive innings. He gave up two hits, both to John Smoke.

Mark Wile, handling the chugging chores for East Stroudsburg, allowed only two hits in four innings, three runs and struck out six.

Quick Opening
In the top half of the first frame, the first Eastburg man up was Henry "Aaron" Johnson. Johnson poked one at the shortstop, and reached second on a bad throw.

Bob Harrison then grounded to the first baseman, and was tossed out as Johnson scampered to third.

John Smoke bunted, and while he was being put out by the first baseman unassisted, little Johnson crossed home plate. The next eight batters fanned.

Parillo had pitched three innings of no-hit ball and was losing 1-0.

It was the fifth inning, when Slate Belt had all its runs, that was the caper.

Passed Ball
Bob Castellano was the first up, and he singled through the middle. Leonard Romano then went down swinging, but not before John Smoke had passed a ball, and Castellano had trotted to second.

Dick Smith, having a perfect day at the plate, drove in Castellano with a single, and Nick Parillo doubled into right center field, driving in Smith.

Playoff Slate

REERE is tonight's schedule for Babe Ruth and Little League playoff games.

Babe Ruth—Gordon Giffels Field, 5:30—Bethlehem All-Stars vs. Pocono All-Stars. Sudden death playoff.

Little League—
Stroudsburg Field 6:00
Slate Belt All-Stars vs. Stroudsburg All-Stars.
East Stroudsburg Field
—Bangor All-Stars vs. Pocono All-Stars.

Sherwin Albert was next up and he walked. Wile was in real trouble and when he threw two straight balls to Bob Ruggerio, the next batter, he was taken out.

Wile and Tom Lee, the first baseman, exchanged positions with the count 2 and 0 on Ruggerio.

Lee worked to a full count on Ruggerio, and the Slate Belter grounded to the pitcher. Meanwhile Parillo was on his way. The third baseman let the ball slip by him, and Parillo ran home.

Bears Down
Lee then bore down on Mike Zito and flipped the called third strike past him.

Other highlights of the game included a towering (for the size of the players) double down the left field line. The fourth inning hit missed clearing the fence by a few feet.

Bob Castellano made the fielding play of the day. He is the center fielder, and Mark Wile was at the plate.

With Smoke on second from his double, Wile drilled one deep into center field. Castellano made a running stab at the ball, going cross-field, and came up with it.

Collect 11 Hits
The Pirates gave Gibson all the help he needed, banging out 11 hits and jumping on Cub starter Jack Curtis for single tallies in the first and seventh innings and a pair of runs in the fourth.

Back to back singles by Dick Stuart and Don Hoak, a sacrifice bunt and Bill Mazeroski's two-run bloop single gave the Pirates their two tallies in the fourth.

Stuart drove in Pittsburgh's first run with a double in the first inning with Joe Christopher on second base.

Curtis, who was lifted for a pinchhitter in the eighth, was charged with the loss, his fourth against six victories.

Darkness Forces Halt; 4-4 Tilt To Be Resumed Tonight At 5:30

By Curt Prins
Sports Editor

WITH THE dark of night rolling in and the even darker prospects of losing on top of them, the Pocono Mountain All-Stars rallied for four runs in the closing innings, to tie Bethlehem 4-4 in the semi-final game of the District 4 Babe Ruth playoffs at Gordon Giffels Field last night.

The game, which went eight innings before being called because of darkness, will be resumed tonight at 5:30. It will be a left-handed sudden death affair. If Pocono, the home team, scores the first run, it wins but if Bethlehem scores in any of the extra innings, Pocono will have a chance to bat.

The winner of tomorrow's continuation, will play Saturday for the District title. The game will be against either Shenandoah or Freeland.

Slim Prospects
As the sixth inning opened last night, even the most loyal Pocono fans, wouldn't have bet that Pocono could score four runs. Bethlehem pitcher Walt Kovacs, aided by some fine fielding, had blanked Pocono on only one hit, a single by Norb Ryan for the first five frames.

In fact he put the side down in order in the first and second and allowed only three base runners. But that was before the sixth.

While Kovacs was having things most his own way, Bethlehem was slapping Pocono right-handed Norb Ryan around. Ryan was in trouble in every inning, and finally in the fourth, Bethlehem pushed across two runs and duplicated the feat in the fifth.

Ryan was having excellent success with his fast ball but every time he tossed a curve, Bethlehem jumped on it for a base hit.

The visitors collected all of their seven hits in the first five innings but after that they were set down in order by Ryan who fanned four of the last nine batters he faced and allowed only two balls to get out of the infield. From the sixth on, Ryan, junked the curve almost completely and used the fast ball as the big weapon.

Murphy Has Fair
Pocono also collected seven hits, with George Murphy, the only home player to manage more than one. Murphy belted a single and double in four trips and drove in three runs.

Pocono's two errorless game mark went out the window in the first inning and before it was over, the Mountain Club committed three more.

There was almost nothing for the home fans to cheer about until the sixth, when shortstop Dave Ruelman opened with a single and moved to second on a balk. Murphy rapped a ground rule double scoring Ruelman and moved to third on another balk. Neil Costanzo's single brought Ruelman home with the second run and the darkness seemed to lift a little.

Great Stop
Bill Hayes kicked off the seventh with a hard smash toward third. Third baseman Tom Jenkins made a great stop of the ball, directly over the bag but he thought the ball was foul. By the time he realized the ball was fair, Hayes was across first.

Waldo Dyson, batting for Bill Newhart, singled Hayes to second and John Woodling went in to run for Dyson. Ruelman's perfect sacrifice bunt moved up both runners and Murphy bloomed a single to left, scoring the lead runner easily. But Woodling appeared to be an easy out at the plate. Jenkins, who went in to pitch, after the first two Poconos hit safely, cut the throw from the outfield off and had Woodling out by five feet. But instead of tagging Woodling, Jenkins flipped the ball to catcher Ray Shesko and before Shesko could make the tag, Woodling was across the plate.

Woodling took a short cut in getting to the plate. He missed third base by several feet but it went unnoticed by the Bethlehem players.

John Ryan walked to put runners on first and second with only one out but Jenkins retired the side without further damage.

Woodling took a short cut in getting to the plate. He missed third base by several feet but it went unnoticed by the Bethlehem players.

John Ryan walked to put runners on first and second with only one out but Jenkins retired the side without further damage.

Judge Voids NFL-CBS Grid Pact

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A Federal judge Thursday invalidated the National Football League's television contract for 1961-62.

Judge Allan K. Grim of U.S. District Court, ruled that the $9,300,000 package deal for two years between the NFL and the Columbia Broadcasting System violated a decision he handed down Dec. 12, 1963, and therefore was in violation of anti-trust laws.

"I am obliged to construe the final judgment (of the court) as prohibiting execution and perfor-manage of the contract dated April 28, 1961," the ruling said.

The Department of Justice questioned the legality of the new NFL-CBS deal, concluded by League Commissioner Pete Rozelle and giving CBS the right to televise all league games through the next two seasons.

It was in response to this opposition that Grim gave his ruling Thursday.

Share $4,650,000

Under the terms of the contract, which the 14 member clubs of the NFL authorized Rozelle to negotiate and sign, all clubs would have shared the annual $4,650,000 fee, after certain exemption and deductions.

In the past, the clubs made their own deals for the telecasting of their games. The new contract departs from that practice, the judge noted, in that the member clubs agreed that each will not sell its television rights separately and apart from the others, but

TWIN CITY Television softball team will open its season Saturday in preparation for defending its Pennsylvania Keystone Amateur Softball Assn. major crown in Altoona next month.

Manager Ray Davies' team will take on Lackawanna Hotel at Stroudsburg Playground Saturday at 6:30. There will be no admission.

Davies said that if the fans support Saturday's game, he will schedule games with outstanding major softball teams in the Eastern part of the country. But he added that if there is not enough interest Saturday, Twin City will play practice games to get in shape for the tournament.

Tchorz To Pitch
Stan Tchorz, who has pitched Twin City to two consecutive state championships, will hurl Saturday. Tchorz, an East Stroudsburg State College graduate, is presently teaching in Piscataway, N.J. He plans to play with Twin City in this year's Altoona event.

Tchorz has been named the most valuable pitcher in the state tournament in the last two years and has not given up an earned run in tournament play.

Davies will hold tryouts for players interested in joining Twin City at 5:30 Saturday at the playground.

Most of last year's Twin City team will be back for another year, including Jack Newell, Hal Freeman, Ron Phillips, Harold Strunk and Bill (Pickles) Kresge. Several of the former Strouds players are expected to play with Davies this season.

LONDON (AP)—The injury-ridden United States track team takes on Great Britain Friday and Saturday, when it's over the Americans will have competed in three meets in the space of eight days—which must be an endurance record.

Last weekend, the United States men defeated Russia, 13 events to 9, and Wednesday wrapped up a 14-6 victory over West Germany. They arrived here in a chartered airliner Thursday and immediately went through a workout.

A woman's meet will be held in conjunction with the men's and in this one Great Britain is expected to win.

Wilma Rudolph, the Tennessee State Olympian who set a world 100-meter dash record of 11.2 seconds against West Germany, but finished with a slight sprain, has recovered.

Four members of the men's team will be out of the meet because of injuries and another will be operating at half strength.

Javelin thrower John Fromm of Seattle has a pull in his side; hop, step and jumper Bill Sharpe of Philadelphia has a stiff leg; pole vaulter John Uelses of the Quantico Marines has a bad leg; and sprinter Paul Drayton of Villanova has a leg pull. All have been scratched.

In addition, Jerry Siebert of Santa Clara, Calif., has both a cold and a bad knee, but will start in the half-mile.

"So," said Coach Jumbo Jim Elliott, "I have had to do some quick switching around. There's no doubt that the replacements will not help much in some cases, but I still think we ought to win the meet."

There is no decathlon, so Dave Edstrom will handle the javelin in place of Fromm. Ralph Boston, the world record broad jumper from Tennessee State of Cliff Cushman, primarily a quarter-mile hurdler, will take over for Sharpe in the hop, step and jump.

Paul Herman of Whitworth College, Spokane, Wash., the other decathlon man, will substitute for Uelses in the polevault. Chuck Frazier will run for Drayton in the 100-yard dash and Earl Young of Abilene Christian will replace him in the 220.

CHICAGO (AP)—Fifth-seeded Don Dell of Bethesda, Md., Thursday scored a resounding upset in the quarterfinals of the National Clay Courts Tennis Tournament, eliminating the Wimbledon Finalist, Chuck McKinley, of St. Ann, Mo., 6-3, 7-5, 6-3.

The 20-year-old McKinley, second-seeded behind Bernard (Tut) Barten in the week long meet at the River Forest Tennis Club, won the first two games of the 1½ hour match but then seemed baffled by the deliberate, consistent play of Dell.

Dell's semifinal opponent Saturday will be Dennis Ralston, Cal., 4 seed from Bakersfield, Calif., who won his quarterfinal match by default from No. 6 Chris Crawford of Piedmont, Calif., Crawford, trailing 6-2, 6-1, quit because of a blood blister on racket hand as he lagged 4-1 in the third set.

The other semifinal match which will be Friday, will pit Barten, who scored a four-set quarterfinal victory over No. 7 Allan Fox of Los Angeles, and Marine Corp. Jon Douglas, the former Stanford football quarterback from Santa Monica, Calif. Douglas had easy going Thursday, brushing aside the No. 8 Larry Nagler of Hollywood, Calif., 6-4, 6-1, 6-1.

Barten, seeking his fourth Clay Court crown, started and finished fast in eliminating the NCAA champion Fox 6-0, 2-6, 6-4, 6-0.

Last weekend, the United States men defeated Russia, 13 events to 9, and Wednesday wrapped up a 14-6 victory over West Germany. They arrived here in a chartered airliner Thursday and immediately went through a workout.

A woman's meet will be held in conjunction with the men's and in this one Great Britain is expected to win.

Wilma Rudolph, the Tennessee State Olympian who set a world 100-meter dash record of 11.2 seconds against West Germany, but finished with a slight sprain, has recovered.

Four members of the men's team will be out of the meet because of injuries and another will be operating at half strength.

Javelin thrower John Fromm of Seattle has a pull in his side; hop, step and jumper Bill Sharpe of Philadelphia has a stiff leg; pole vaulter John Uelses of the Quantico Marines has a bad leg; and sprinter Paul Drayton of Villanova has a leg pull. All have been scratched.

In addition, Jerry Siebert of Santa Clara, Calif., has both a cold and a bad knee, but will start in the half-mile.

"So," said Coach Jumbo Jim Elliott, "I have had to do some quick switching around. There's no doubt that the replacements will not help much in some cases, but I still think we ought to win the meet."

There is no decathlon, so Dave Edstrom will handle the javelin in place of Fromm. Ralph Boston, the world record broad jumper from Tennessee State of Cliff Cushman, primarily a quarter-mile hurdler, will take over for Sharpe in the hop, step and jump.

Paul Herman of Whitworth College, Spokane, Wash., the other decathlon man, will substitute for Uelses in the polevault. Chuck Frazier will run for Drayton in the 100-yard dash and Earl Young of Abilene Christian will replace him in the 220.

Low Seeder Scores Clay Court Upset
By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—Fifth-seeded Don Dell of Bethesda, Md., Thursday scored a resounding upset in the quarterfinals of the National Clay Courts Tennis Tournament, eliminating the Wimbledon Finalist, Chuck McKinley, of St. Ann, Mo., 6-3, 7-5, 6-3.

The 20-year-old McKinley, second-seeded behind Bernard (Tut) Barten in the week long meet at the River Forest Tennis Club, won the first two games of the 1½ hour match but then seemed baffled by the deliberate, consistent play of Dell.

Dell's semifinal opponent Saturday will be Dennis Ralston, Cal., 4 seed from Bakersfield, Calif., who won his quarterfinal match by default from No. 6 Chris Crawford of Piedmont, Calif., Crawford, trailing 6-2, 6-1, quit because of a blood blister on racket hand as he lagged 4-1 in the third set.

The other semifinal match which will be Friday, will pit Barten, who scored a four-set quarterfinal victory over No. 7 Allan Fox of Los Angeles, and Marine Corp. Jon Douglas, the former Stanford football quarterback from Santa Monica, Calif. Douglas had easy going Thursday, brushing aside the No. 8 Larry Nagler of Hollywood, Calif., 6-4, 6-1, 6-1.

Barten, seeking his fourth Clay Court crown, started and finished fast in eliminating the NCAA champion Fox 6-0, 2-6, 6-4, 6-0.

Team Forfeits; No Baseballs
SUFFOLK, Va. (AP)—And there we were, the bottom of the fourth with an 8-0 lead, and then... A foul ball out of the park not only ended Wednesday night's Junior Baseball League game but wiped out the home team's lead and gave Franklin a forfeit victory.

League rules call for the home team to supply the balls for each game. And that ball knocked out of the park in the fourth was the eighth—and last—one the Pirates could produce.

Hard-Sell Technique

By William A. Doyle

Q. A man is bothering me — constantly — to buy shares of a mutual fund. He says that if I invest $5000 now, I will immediately receive $50 a month for 10 years. And he guarantees that, at the end of 10 years, my investment will be worth $10,000.

Is this so? I am 55-year-old woman. My money is hard saved. Please answer soon. This man calls every night.

a. remember the old song: "There's no one with endurance."

"Like the man who sells insurance."

"He gets us all in the end."

That still holds true. But, nowadays, the hard - sell technique has been adopted by some segments of the securities business. Some securities salesmen (but not, by any means, all of them) push too hard and give the whole business a bad name.

If this guy really said what you say he did, don't have anything to do with him. He's more than unethical. By "guaranteeing" you anything he's breaking the law. He's prohibited from making any guarantee.

I took the name of the fund out of your question because, if it was left in, some readers might get the idea that the fund is shady. It isn't. It's a good mutual fund, with a good performance record.

The funds have little or no control over what salesmen say. Most securities salesmen are representatives of broker-dealers. Except for a few large sales organizations, the salesmen do not work directly for the mutual funds.

That salesman is evidently recommending that you put your money into shares of the fund and have those shares in a "monthly withdrawal service." That way you would get a check every month. However, with this fund (and most others) you must have at least $10,000 worth of shares before you can use the withdrawal service.

Even if the minimum was $5,000, the kind of results this guy "guarantees" would be much too much to hope for.

Q. I own some International

Telephone & Telegraph common stock. Frankly I am "rooting" for this stock. I feel that it is a wonderful company. I can't understand why this stock does not seem to find favor in the market, so that its price rises. Can you tell me?

A. As long as you are happy with this stock (and you have good reason) stay with it. IT&T has traded this year in a price range between 60% ($60.875 a share) and 44% ($44.75 a share) and is now not too far down from its high for the year.

This stock has a good record of growth and has risen in value over the years. It is now selling at about five times the price it was at only six years ago. By all means, keep "rooting" for it. But don't expect too much, too soon.

Q. Seven years ago I left my stock certificates in my broker's care. I haven't received my regular monthly statement from the broker in recent months. Would an inquiry be advisable?

A. Indeed it would. Perhaps there's nothing wrong. But to be certain, make a checkup. You're entitled to know what's going on.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)
